Reflection A temple is a place where God dwells. Where then was the true temple of God? The answer to this question must have seemed obvious to the Jews; but Our Lord was just about to suggest that there was another temple. The part of the temple out of which Our Lord drove the traders was known as the Porch of Solomon, the eastern side of the Court of the Gentiles. This section should have served as a symbol showing that all the nations of the world were welcome; but the traders were defiling it. He was now making it clear that the temple was meant for all nations, not for Jerusalem alone. He called the temple "My Father's house," affirming at the same moment His own filial relationship to the Heavenly Father. Those who were driven out of the temple did not lay hands on Him...They merely asked for a sign or a warrant which would justify His actions. [His reply] "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up again."

It is important to note that in the original Greek, Our Lord did not use the word hieron, which was the usual Greek name for the temple, but rather naos, which meant the Holy of Holies of the temple. He was saying in effect, "The temple is the place where God dwells. You have profaned the old temple; but there is now another Temple. Destroy this new Temple, by crucifying Me, and in three days I shall raise it up. Though you will destroy My Body, which is the house of My Father, by My Resurrection I shall put all nations in possession of the new Temple." Christ's Body was a Temple, because the fullness of God was dwelling in Him corporally. The moment that it was destroyed on Good Friday, the veil that hung over the Holy of Holies [in the Temple of Jerusalem] would be rent from top to bottom; and the veil of His flesh would also be rent, revealing the true Holy of Holies, the Sacred Heart of the Son of God.

Venerable Servant of God, Archbishop Fulton J Sheen

Prayer to St Joseph
Glorious Patriarch St Joseph, whose power makes the impossible possible, come to my aid in these times of anguish and difficulty. Take under your protection the serious and troubling situations that I commend to you, that they may have a happy outcome. My beloved father, all my trust is in you. Let it not be said that I invoked you in vain, and since you can do everything with Jesus and Mary, show me that your goodness is as great as your power. Amen
